

Memorial Hall Wall Cracks As Snow, Ice Thaw In Bricks

The big snow of last weekend brought delayed action damage to one of Pickaway County's public buildings.

Snow and ice melting on the roof of 60-year-old Memorial Hall in Circleville Thursday morning caused a bulge in the east wall just below the roof. A small section already has fallen to the sidewalk.

Circleville service department barricaded South Pickaway street from Franklin to Main streets to prevent injury to pedestrians and damage to autos. Parked cars were removed from the area.

Circleville Public Library, housed on the first floor of the building has been closed. Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian, said the closing was to prevent injury to persons using the library, particularly children who might ignore the barricades and pass under the danger area.

Meanwhile, the rest of Pickaway County was still digging itself out of the snow drifts. County Engineer Henry T. McCrady reported all county roads open at least for one-way traffic. The weatherman said there is no immediate threat of floods because there 'will not be much melting of snow Thursday and Friday.

"Temperatures will be a little lower Friday," he added, "but not much lower."

County Commissioner William Goode said repairs to Memorial Hall probably would be ordered immediately.

It was explained that weight of the snow was not the cause of the bulge. Water from melting snow and ice seeped between cracks in the wall, later froze and expanded, pushing the bricks out.

Circleville's Memorial Hall was constructed during 1890-91 at a cost of about $35,000 and was formally dedicated Dec. 29, 1891.

The building was built through the combined efforts of the city of Circleville and the Soldiers' Monumental Association of Pickaway County. It is a three-story structure composed of pressed brick and stone and its ground dimensions measure 92x106 feet.

Since construction, the building has been used both for an armory and for the Circleville public library. The library was given a 99-year lease to a portion of the lower floor in the Summer of 1892.

Some older Circleville persons, remembering the silver-tongued oratory of William Jennings Bryan said the building was considered "unsafe" when the many-times candidate for President spoke here.

However, as late as only a year ago the building was inspected by state inspectors and was given a clean bill of health.

Circleville's "Operation Snow-shovel" got underway Wednesday afternoon, but not with the number of men and trucks expected.

John Magill, Circleville Chamber of Commerce secretary, said about 30 men worked from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., using 10 trucks furnished by local merchants. The group worked in cooperation with the city service department.

Snow was cleared from the intersection of Court and Main streets Wednesday afternoon. Magill said the snow was dumped in Hargus Creek.

He added that the work was to continue Thursday, but not as a mass movement of merchants. Trucks were to be lined up for use by businessmen "who will help themselves" to clear snow away from curbs in front of their business establishments.

"There are plenty of trucks," said Magill. "It's just a matter of people getting out and doing a little bit of neighborly work."

Concerning Wednesday's work,

Mayor Thurman I. Miller said: "The merchants are to be commended for their spirit of cooperation."

Circleville fire and water departments were taking advantage of the snow cleanup Thursday. The two departments were busy shoveling the snow into cisterns to provide a reserve water supply in case of fire.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said snow had been dumped into four cisterns: at the intersection of Court and Main, Court and

Boston Censor Demands Changes In New Musical

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—"Out Of This World," latest Cole Porter musical, may be acceptable in some parts of this world, but unless changes are made it will be "out of Boston."

The changes were being effected today on orders of Miss Beatrice J. Whelton, assistant city censor, who called for nine changes in costumes, actions or lyrics of the play which brings a sexy Greek myth up to date. The show opened Tuesday night in the Shubert theatre.

Venus, portrayed by the curvaceous Gisella Svetlik, will have to cover up a few bare spots. Mercury, played by William Redfield, must be more circumspect in handling his dancing partner.

Some of the words of some of the songs, Miss Whelton declared, would not be permitted even in Boston gin mills, so out they go—or else.

Dancer Janet Collins, in the role of "Night," will have to pull down the shades on her costume.

And finally, added Miss Whelton, the entire cast will stop "all irreverent use of 'God'."

A-BOMB CURBING DISASTER Churchill Urges Big Four Parley To Find Peace

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Winston Churchill urged today a Big Four conference to settle the world's problems, and said that only American atomic bomb superiority is staving off disaster now.

The wartime prime minister addressed the House of Commons during the second day of a foreign affairs debate on his 76th birthday.

He said he believes a major attack by Russia in Europe is not likely in the near future and expressed hope that a settlement can be reached before Russia attains A-bomb equality.

He stressed the value of "personal contacts" among world leaders and said the Big Four should meet in secret if necessary.

With regard to Soviet strength, he said:

"Russian policy has gained control of half of Europe and all of China without losing a single Russian soldier."

"THEY SHOW no sign of being in any way satiated or satisfied. I can perceive no limit at present to their aims."

"The Soviet stockpile of atomic bombs is growing."

Churchill said:

"Let us not separate ourselves in action and understanding sympathy from the United States, nor indulge in criticism of their commanders or do anything to weaken the vital ties which bind our fates together."

He reminded the house how the U. S. is bearing the brunt of the burden in the Far East and suffering the highest loss of blood.

Churchill urged earliest reconstitution of the combined chiefs of staff and recommended stronger British representation at Lake Success.

He concluded:

"Let us make our fundamental unity apparent to the world."

"The best hope of avoiding a third world war... is not by appeasement through weakness but by proof of an unconquerable resolve."

"If war ever comes—which God forbid—it will come at the moment of Russia's choice."

"It is impossible to prophesy what she will do or how she will do it, but it does not seem that Russia intends to begin a major struggle now."

Gen. Marshall Urging Partial Mobilization

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Secretary of Defense Marshall declared last night that the United States must adopt "partial mobilization"—unprecedented in American history—because the nation faces "a long period of tension."

Marshall called for increased production and said Congress must consider immediately "certain measures to enable us in this country to carry out the measures that seem urgently required at this particular time."

The defense secretary termed the Korean situation "critical," but added that he believes full mobilization at present would be "ill advised." However, General Marshall said, the United States "must set itself automatically and almost instantly to full mobilization if that becomes necessary."

Marshall spoke before more than 1,500 people at a $500-a-plate dinner in behalf of three institutions of higher learning in Israel.

HE DECLINED to comment at length on events in Korea "because of the fact that the issues are now under immediate consideration" by the United Nations.

Truman 'Considers' Use Of A-Bomb To Halt Reds

NEW DEFENSE LINES SET UP

Commies Continue To Rip Through UN Army Lines

TOKYO, Nov. 30.—An 80,000-man Chinese Red assault cut off several American units in North-east Korea tonight while United Nations forces in the northwest abandoned two key hubs in retreating to a new defense line.

A front dispatch by International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero from Pyongyang reported at 11:03 Thursday night that the withdrawing UN troops had given up Sinanju, Anju and their two important air fields.

These twin rail and highway hubs lie just south of the Chongchun river estuary, respectively 38 and 39 miles north-northwest of Pyongyang, the UN-held former Communist capital of North Korea.

A high-ranking Republic of Korea military official declared meanwhile that Communist China is prepared to throw huge numbers of planes and tanks into the Korean war.

As an uneasy quiet fell over the northwest front above threatened Pyongyang, armor-led Chinese hordes in the northeast seized a seven-mile section of the important U. S. 10th Corps supply road between Hamhung and the Changjin reservoir.

MAJ. GEN. Edward M. Almond, commander of the 10th Corps, announced that units of three Chinese route armies "suddenly appeared" in action against his forces on the east side of North Korea.

These forces totalled up to ten divisions of 8,000 troops each. This indicated that, with the 200,000-man host the Chinese Reds threw into the northwest and central sectors, Communist China now has sent some 280,000 troops in Korea. More are in reserve in Manchuria.

A Thursday night field dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan, who is on the northeast front, quoted Almond as saying the "surge of the Communist forces has cut the coordination between the Eighth Army and 10th Corps."

The 10th Corps chief identified the fresh Chinese Red units attacking his troops as "a regular military force—not volunteers."

The northwest battle zone became abruptly silent about midday Thursday as American, Rok, British and Turkish forces shook off enemy pursuit, escaped a threatening trap and withdrew south from the smashed Chongchun river line.

The battered UN troops took up new defense positions above the Allied-occupied former North Korean capital of Pyongyang as Chinese Red spearheads were reported already within 32 miles of that city.

A dispatch by International

News Service War Correspondent Irving R. Levine, received from Seoul at 7:35 Thursday evening, quoted a U. S. Eighth Army spokesman as saying the whole northwest front had been quiet for several hours.

"All along the front," the official said, "the United Nations forces have been successful in disengaging from the enemy to establish a new line."

The dispatch said that the disengagement "is not an indication that the Chinese have halted their attacks but simply that, at least temporarily, the UN forces outran the enemy."

It Is Up To Commies, Chief Says

Full Mobilization May Be Necessary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—President Truman said today he is considering use of the atomic bomb to smash the Communist Chinese hordes in Korea and defense officials quickly declared that they are ready to unleash an atomic attack on an hour's notice.

Mr. Truman asserted that United Nations forces under Gen. MacArthur will not "abandon their mission" and he indicated that full U. S. mobilization may be near.

The President told a tense news conference that he will meet with congressional leaders of both parties tomorrow to decide whether all-out mobilization is necessary to meet the grave threat of a third world war.

Defense leaders said they are prepared to carry out an atomic attack against the Chinese Reds whenever the order is issued. They pointed out that giant B-36 bombers have a combat range "more than 10,000 miles," enough to span the Pacific.

Profit Tax Bill Readied

Truman Request Being Shaved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The House Ways and Means Committee probably will approve today a corporation excess profits tax netting considerably less than the $4 billion requested by President Truman.

Indications are that the 25-member group will report out a measure raising between $2.5 to $3.1 billion a year.

The consensus among members is that there is practically no chance that the full amount will be approved. The President's request for a 75 percent tax on excess profits was rejected, but after a day of confused voting the group was back where it started from.

Numerous votes were taken yesterday and several substitutes were adopted and rejected before the committee decided to call it quits and try again today.

Members anticipated that a final decision will be reached today and that the approved bill will be introduced formally in the House tomorrow. Democratic Leader McCormack, Mass., said he planned to call the measure up early next week. Debate may begin Tuesday.

DEFENSE CHIEFS

also made it plain that a supply of A-bombs is ready for combat use.

Mr. Truman indicated that the U. S. will take whatever steps are necessary to win ultimate victory in Korea regardless of what action is taken by the United Nations in the current debate at Lake Success.

The chief executive declared that "we are fighting in Korea for our own national security and survival."

The President, reading from a prepared statement on the Korean crisis, said with the utmost emphasis:

"If aggression is successful in Korea, we can expect it to spread through Asia and Europe to this hemisphere."

"We may suffer reverses as we have suffered them before."

"But the forces of the United Nations have no intention of withdrawing from Korea."

Mr. Truman said he hopes it will not be necessary to use the A-bomb, but he added quickly that the decision rests with Red China and made it plain that the dread weapon will be used if the Communist overlords continue their savage onslaught.

The President said that after his vital conference with congressional leaders tomorrow he will ask Congress for enormous new appropriations for large-scale expansion of the armed (Continued on Page Two)

SOVIET AIDE SPEECHLESS

Red China Says Truman Stand Is 'Interesting'

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 30.—Communist China's chief representative at the United Nations said today that President Truman's announcement the U. S. will use the atomic bomb if necessary to smash Red aggression in Korea is "very interesting."

Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik appeared startled by the news, but refrained from comment.

President Truman's announcement landed with tremendous impact among United Nations officials and workers.

Top officials and delegates declined comment pending closer study of the effects and purposes of the presidential statement, which privately was described as a major new factor in the crisis over Korea.

The Security Council began its third day of continuous sessions at 11:10 a. m. to clear aside a 90-minute English and French translation of Soviet Delegate Malik's speech of yesterday assailing the U. S. and UN on Korea.

ON ARRIVAL at Lake Success for the council sessions, an INS correspondent informed Malik of President Truman's statement. Malik stopped dead in his tracks and asked slowly:

"Did he say he would use the bomb?"

"No. He said the U. S. is considering use of the A-bomb to stop Chinese aggression."

Malik thought this over for a moment, pursed his lips and walked away. A little later, he was asked again by the INS correspondent in the diplomatic lounge for an opinion. He held up both hands before him and said:

"No comment."

Gen. Wu Hsiu-Chuan, chief of the Chinese Communist delegation, came into the lounge a little later surrounded by several of his advisers.

An INS correspondent informed his assistant Pu Shan—Harvard graduate — of Mr. Truman's statement. Pu Shan whistled the news to Wu, whose face never moved, but he cupped his hand to his ear.

Pu Shan turned to the INS correspondent and said:

"Ambassador Wu has no comment."

Later, Pu Shan amplified his statement by adding:

"Ambassador Wu says the information is very interesting."

Ales Bebler of Yugoslavia, president of the Security Council, listened gravely to the news from Washington and said it would be impossible at the present to make any kind of observation.

GOP Pledges Cooperation

'Non-Obstruction' Policy Established

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Senate Republicans discussed the grave Korean situation at their first post election conference today and announced a policy of "non-obstruction" for the rest of this session of Congress.

Mixed reaction greeted President Truman's announcement that he is considering using the atomic bomb against the Chinese Reds. It ranged from outright Republican approval to a cautious plea for "more facts on the situation."

Sen. Millikin, (R) Colo., chairman of the GOP conference, told newsmen he was sure the President "will get his appropriations" both for general defense and the atomic armament program.

Millikin told newsmen after the conference of old and new Republican senators that GOP Policy Chairman Taft of Ohio had enunciated the "non-obstruction" program during the closed meeting.

Millikin agreed that "no obstruction means cooperation." He explained:

"We are holding the majority party responsible for programming the rest of this session. We do not intend to indulge in any obstruction."

Millikin said there was discussion of the Korean crisis, led by him as chairman. He said:

"I pointed out that our party had a terrific responsibility which it should fully meet in connection with the predicament with which the country is confronted."

Forty-two sitting and eight new GOP members for the new Senate were present at the conference to air their views on the critical Far Eastern situation and ask for last-minute information.

Domestic politics and legislative program are likely for review, but the accent appeared to be on the threat to world peace.

Senate Republican leaders charged Secretary of State Acheson is trying to oust Gen. MacArthur and predicted that unless Acheson is fired "the situation will get worse instead of better."

Senate GOP Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska accused Acheson of joining with the British in a sniping campaign at the supreme Allied commander.

REBELLED the Security Council would come to a vote this afternoon on the six-power resolution and run into the inevitable Soviet veto.

The Yugoslav is sitting as council president for the last day. Tomorrow Tingfu F. Tsiang of Nationalist China is due in the chair.

Bebler told INS, however, that Tsiang has agreed to step aside and yield the presidency to Carlos Blanco of Cuba.

Malik demanded a vote on his resolution, which he introduced (Continued on Page Two)

"The situation," he said, "is critical. We must do everything we can to get it in hand, and I am sure everything will be done. But we look with the most intense interest to the consideration and decision of the United Nations."

He continued: "We are in a situation which is different, I believe, from any in which we have been before. It imposes something for which we are not prepared. I am talking about partial mobilization."

"It was never anticipated," he said, "that we would have a long period of tension in which we take our men away from their homes, their families, their business. We do not know for how long."

Both men and materiel, he said, must be kept in a state of constant readiness. But to set up a mountain of supplies, he said, risks the danger that they will become outdated.

HE RECALLED that mobilization in 1941 was saved by a single vote in Congress and said a system that would endure must be set up with public support.

"We know what is required in such a system," he said, "and it must be of such a nature that it provides the reserves you need almost instantly, prepared to act, and yet is of such a nature that it doesn't beggar us financially."

Truman 'Considers' Use Of A-Bomb To Halt Reds

NEW DEFENSE LINES SET UP Commies Continue To Rip Through UN Army Lines

TOKYO, Nov. 30—An 80,000-man Chinese Red assault cut off several American units in North-east Korea tonight while United Nations forces in the northwest abandoned two key hubs in retreating to a new defense line.

A front dispatch by International News Service War Correspondent Lee Ferrero from Pyongyang reported at 11:03 Thursday night that the withdrawing UN troops had given up Sinanju, Anju and their two important air fields.

Numerous votes were taken yesterday and several substitutes were adopted and rejected before the committee decided to call it quits and try again today.

Members anticipated that a final decision will be reached today and that the approved bill will be introduced formally in the House tomorrow. Democratic Leader McCormack, Mass., said he planned to call the measure up early next week. Debate may begin Tuesday.

MAJ. GEN. Edward M. Almond, commander of the 10th Corps, announced that units of three Chinese route armies "suddenly appeared" in action against his forces on the east side of North Korea.

These forces totalled up to ten divisions of 8,000 troops each. This indicated that, with the 200,000-man host the Chinese Reds threw into the northwest and central sectors, Communist China now has sent some 280,000 troops in Korea. More are in reserve in Manchuria.

A Thursday night field dispatch from International News Service War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan, who is on the northeast front, quoted Almond as saying the "surge of the Communist forces has cut the coordination between the Eighth Army and 10th Corps."

The 10th Corps chief identified the fresh Chinese Red units attacking his troops as "a regular military force—not volunteers."

The northwest battle zone became abruptly silent about mid-day Thursday as American, Rok, British and Turkish forces shook off enemy pursuit, escaped a threatening trap and withdrew south from the smashed Chongchon river line.

The battered UN troops took up new defense positions above the Allied-occupied former North Korean capital of Pyongyang as Chinese Red spearheads were reported already within 32 miles of that city.

GOP Pledges Cooperation 'Non-Obstruction' Policy Established

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Senate Republicans discussed the grave Korean situation at their first post election conference today and announced a policy of "non-obstruction" for the rest of this session of Congress.

Mixed reaction greeted President Truman's announcement that he is considering using the atomic bomb against the Chinese Reds. It ranged from outright Republican approval to a cautious plea for "more facts on the situation."

Sen. Millikin, (R) Colo., chairman of the GOP conference, told newsmen he was sure the President "will get his appropriations" both for general defense and the atomic armament program.

Millikin told newsmen after the conference of old and new Republican senators that GOP Policy Chairman Taft of Ohio had enunciated the "non-obstruction" program during the closed meeting.

Millikin agreed that "no obstruction means cooperation." He explained: "We are holding the majority party responsible for programming the rest of this session. We do not intend to indulge in any obstruction."

Millikin said there was discussion of the Korean crisis, led by him as chairman. He said: "I pointed out that our party had a terrific responsibility which it should fully meet in connection with the predicament with which the country is confronted."

Forty-two sitting and eight new GOP members for the new Senate were present at the conference to air their views on the critical Far Eastern situation and ask for last-minute information.

Domestic politics and legislative program are likely for review, but the accent appeared to be on the threat to world peace.

Senate Republican leader charged Secretary of State Acheson is trying to oust Gen. MacArthur and predicted that unless Acheson is fired "the situation will get worse instead of better."

Senate GOP Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska accused Acheson of joining with the British in a sniping campaign at the supreme Allied commander.

ON ARRIVAL at Lake Success for the council sessions, an INS correspondent informed Malik of President Truman's statement. Malik stopped dead in his tracks and asked slowly: "Did he say he would use the bomb?"

"No. He said the U. S. is considering use of the A-bomb to stop Chinese aggression."

Malik thought this over for a moment, pursed his lips and walked away. A little later, he was asked again by the INS correspondent in the diplomatic lounge for an opinion. He held up both hands before him and said: "No comment."

Gen. Wu Hsiu-Chuan, chief of the Chinese Communist delegation, came into the lounge a little later surrounded by several of his advisers.

An INS correspondent informed his assistant Pu Shan—Harvard graduate—of Mr. Truman's statement. Pu Shan whispered the news to Wu, whose face never moved, but he cupped his hand to his ear.

Pu Shan turned to the INS correspondent and said: "Ambassador Wu has no comment."

Later, Pu Shan amplified his statement by adding: "Ambassador Wu says the information is very interesting."

Ales Bebler of Yugoslavia, president of the Security Council, listened gravely to the news from Washington and said it would be impossible at the present to make any kind of observation.

BEBLER said the Security Council would come to a vote this afternoon on the six-power resolution and veto into the inevitable Soviet veto.

The Yugoslav is sitting as council president for the last day. Tomorrow Tsiang Fu, Tsiang of Nationalist China is due in the chair.

Bebler told INS, however, that Tsiang has agreed to step aside and yield the presidency to Carlos Blanco of Cuba.

Malik demanded a vote on his resolution, which he introduced (Continued on Page Two)

Navy Secretary Stumped By War

SEATTLE, Nov. 30—Navy Secretary Matthews acknowledged today Chinese Communist intentions in North Korea have him guessing.

Matthews, pausing briefly in Seattle on a flight from Alaska and the Far East en route to Washington, confessed: "This new war could or could not be the cradle of World War III. I do not know whether it will develop into what we call a world war."

Franklin, Main and Scioto streets and in front of the fire station on East Franklin street. Circleville looked at its weather problems through rose-tinted glasses Thursday as temperatures inched upward and evidence of thawing was seen on the city streets.

The weatherman goes along with the inclination to foresee a brighter picture for Ohio in its battle against snow-clogged highways.

For Thursday, the weather-cast was "windy and a little milder with high temperatures varying in the middle 30s."

The weatherman added that temperatures will offer no immediate threat of floods since there was not to have been much thawing on the whole.

Temperatures are to fall Friday but will not be much lower than Thursday's high.

Meanwhile, as Circleville breathed easier Thursday with continued cleanup work, the situation in the surrounding rural area remained critical.

High winds Wednesday caused a few of the recently-cleaned major highways to be blocked off again, and equipment was rushed to those highways to unclog them again.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff reported that Route 104 drifted badly Wednesday, but was being restored to traffic rapidly Thursday.

The deputy also said Route 56 was drifted high as a result of the winds.

Rescue work is still continuing by the local National Guard unit to aid persons in isolated rural areas who have sickness in their families.

The unit made two trips to a Washington Township farm-house late Wednesday to deliver a doctor, while special medicine was delivered to an ill woman in Saltcreek Township.

Workmen are still fighting drifts on county and township roads in an effort to free farm families who have been isolated since last Friday.

The state highway department reported Thursday that its "snow battle is won" and all primary roads have been opened to traffic in Ohio. Traffic was again permitted to travel into Pennsylvania and northeastern Ohio cities.

Circleville schools resumed classes Thursday morning although almost a fourth of the boys and girls were absent. The absence was explained, in part, by the fact that Washington and Wayne Township buses were not able to operate to bring county youngsters into the city.

Pickaway County schools are to remain closed until Monday morning, and all athletic and extra-curricular activities have been cancelled this week.

Police activity along the arresting line of duty has been at a standstill this week. Only one person has been arrested this week, and he was booked for intoxication.

City police continue to request that local motorists keep their autos at home and use the opened streets only for emergency use.

Livestock in Pickaway County has suffered during the blizzard and its prolonged aftereffects.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said that at least two cows have perished because of the cold and high drifts, while sheep deaths are expected to be numerous when final reports are made.

Pickaway County Livestock Association skipped its weekly livestock sale Wednesday—for the first time in its 15-year history.

It was explained that deep snow throughout the county prevented farmers from bringing animals to market.

And the cost of Christmas turkey may increase because of the blizzard.

Three principal turkey growers in the county report losses due to the blizzard, although exact numbers in two of the cases are not known.

Howard Thomas reported he lost nearly 250 birds because of the blizzard. Thomas said he herded his birds into a barn in front of the advancing wall of snow, but that something must have frightened them while inside and 250 of the birds smothered.

Sterley Croman farm reported that about 100 of its birds perished.

A vote on the six-power resolution—originally drafted by the United States and co-sponsored by Cuba, Ecuador, France, Norway and Britain—is expected by this evening.

The following members of the security council are ready to vote for it: Britain, the United States, France, Yugoslavia, Egypt, Ecuador, Norway, Nationalist China and Cuba.

India is awaiting instructions from New Delhi and prospects are that it will vote in favor instead of abstaining.

Russia will vote no and thereby cast its 47th veto of the last five years.

The six-power resolution:

1. Calls on China and all states concerned to stop all aid to North Korea and to withdraw all military personnel from Korea.

2. Affirms that the United Nations holds the Manchurian border "inviolable" and that it respects Chinese interests in the frontier areas in Korea.

3. Insists that no action be taken "which might lead to the spread of the Korean conflict to other areas and thereby further endanger international peace and security."

4. Reaffirms that UN forces will remain in Korea only as long as it is necessary to re-establish peace and order.

5. Calls attention to the "grave danger" of continued Chinese intervention.

6. Requests the UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea to proceed to North Korea and assist in the settlement of the problem caused by China's intervention.

Snow Prevents County Chiefs From Acting

Weather conditions prevented Pickaway County commissioners from holding their regular Monday meeting this week.

"But we'll be on hand for the three-day quarterly meeting Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week," Commissioner William Goode said Thursday.

He added that the last three days of next week will be taken up by a county commissioners convention in Columbus.

One bit of business pushed back by the big snow was a hearing Thursday on a proposed extension of South Pickaway street to a lane which would connect it with Route 23.

The hearing has been tentatively reset for 2 p. m., Dec. 14.

Firemen Called To 'Fix' Fumes

Circleville firemen have been called twice to "do something" about leaky refrigerators.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said Thursday that he has received calls from two persons, whose homes have been threatened by refrigerating gas fumes.

"We can't do anything about it except seal the refrigerator outside," said Wise, "and remind the people that the escaping gases are dangerous."

Wise said the department has an average of one call every three months to check on leaky refrigerators.

forces and a speed-up of the atomic weapon program.

MR. TRUMAN'S disclosure that use of the A-bomb is being considered came during discussion of the United States position in relation to United Nations action.

He said: We will take whatever steps are necessary to meet the situation.

Asked specifically whether such steps would include use of the atomic bomb, Mr. Truman said:

"That includes everything. He added that he hopes it will not be necessary to use the weapon because innocent civilians would be killed, but that the United States must consider every step necessary to its own security."

The President said that if the A-bomb is authorized it will be up to the military commanders to decide whether it will be used solely against Red troops and installations or against industrial objectives as well.

Mr. Truman, making no effort to conceal his intense feeling, vigorously defended MacArthur's direction of the Korean war effort and Secretary of State Acheson's handling of U. S. policy in the Far East.

The President blasted at senators who have charged that Acheson has attempted to undermine MacArthur.

Mr. Truman said MacArthur has been consulted every day and that the general has done a good job and is continuing to do a good job.

When a newsman pointed out that some critics of MacArthur have suggested that the general has exceeded his authority, the President declared angrily:

MacARTHUR did not exceed his authority in any way. Mr. Truman said that criticism of MacArthur carried in certain newspapers is wrong and baseless.

The President added that there was not one word of truth in a current newspaper story charging that Acheson had interfered with MacArthur's handling of Far East problems.

He said that he and other members of the government have been unfairly attacked and that such attacks do not help prevent a third world war.

Mr. Truman said that confidence in the government is absolutely necessary in these perilous days.

He added: If these attacks on such people as Gen. MacArthur and Secretary Acheson do not stop I am going to bust loose one of these days.

The President declared that U. S. policy on neutralization of Formosa has not changed.

He said the United States does not intend to use the Chinese Nationalist troops offered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek but will continue to protect Formosa against attacks from the Chinese Communist mainland.

Mr. Truman, who called the Korean operation a "police action" when he ordered U. S. forces to intervene, was asked whether the conflict had gone beyond that stage.

HE REPLIED that the United States has exerted every effort to prevent another world war, that we are still trying to prevent a global conflict, and that he hopes it can be done.

The President emphasized the need of immediate decisions by leaders of Atlantic Pact Nations for a unified defense of Western Europe against Russian aggression.

He said he will name a su-

"Some places I'm Yolanda. Other places I'm Shalimar. Or Pepper. Or Scarlet. I like an appreciative audience and not even my husband can get away with falling asleep while I'm talking."

Sheepishly, Dellis admitted he has had trouble with his wife ever since they met 14 months ago.

"Once," he said, "she pushed me into heavy traffic at State and Van Buren streets. In Miami, she tried to strangle me with my necktie."

Mrs. Dellis was booked for assault with attempt to commit murder.

Snow Prevents County Chiefs From Acting

Weather conditions prevented Pickaway County commissioners from holding their regular Monday meeting this week.

"But we'll be on hand for the three-day quarterly meeting Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week," Commissioner William Goode said Thursday.

Sheep claims will be considered during the meeting.

He added that the last three days of next week will be taken up by a county commissioners convention in Columbus.

One bit of business pushed back by the big snow was a hearing Thursday on a proposed extension of South Pickaway street to a lane which would connect it with Route 23.

The hearing has been tentatively reset for 2 p. m., Dec. 14.

Firemen Called To 'Fix' Fumes

Circleville firemen have been called twice to "do something" about leaky refrigerators.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said Thursday that he has received calls from two persons, whose homes have been threatened by refrigerating gas fumes.

"We can't do anything about it except set the refrigerator outside," said Wise, "and remind the people that the escaping gasses are dangerous."

Wise said the department has an average of one call every three months to check on leaky refrigerators.

It Is Up To Commies, Chief Says

forces and a speed-up of the atomic weapon program.

MR. TRUMAN'S disclosure that use of the A-bomb is being considered came during discussion of the United States position in relation to United Nations action.

He said:

We will take whatever steps are necessary to meet the situation.

Asked specifically whether such steps would include use of the atomic bomb, Mr. Truman said:

That includes everything. He added that he hopes it will not be necessary to use the weapon because innocent civilians would be killed, but that the United States must consider every step necessary to its own security.

The President said that if the A-bomb is authorized it will be up to the military commanders to decide whether it will be used solely against Red troops and installations or against industrial objectives as well.

Mr. Truman, making no effort to conceal his intense feeling, vigorously defended MacArthur's direction of the Korean war effort and Secretary of State Acheson's handling of U. S. policy in the Far East.

The President blasted at senators who have charged that Acheson has attempted to undermine MacArthur.

Mr. Truman said MacArthur has been consulted every day and that the general has done a good job and is continuing to do a good job.

When a newsman pointed out that some critics of MacArthur have suggested that the general has exceeded his authority, the President declared angrily:

MACARTHUR did not exceed his authority in any way. Mr. Truman said that criticism of MacArthur carried in certain newspapers is wrong and baseless.

The President added that there was not one word of truth in a current newspaper story charging that Acheson had interfered with MacArthur's handling of Far East problems.

He said that he and other members of the government have been unfairly attacked and that such attacks do not help win the Korean conflict or help prevent a third world war.

Mr. Truman said that confidence in the government is absolutely necessary in these perilous days.

He added:

If these attacks on such people as Gen. MacArthur and Secretary Acheson do not stop I am going to bust loose one of these days.

The President declared that U. S. policy on neutralization of Formosa has not changed.

He said the United States does not intend to use the Chinese Nationalist troops offered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek but will continue to protect Formosa against attacks from the Chinese Communist mainland.

Mr. Truman, who called the Korean operation a "police action" when he ordered U. S. forces to intervene, was asked whether the conflict had gone beyond that stage.

HE REPLIED that the United States has exerted every effort to prevent another world war, that we are still trying to prevent a global conflict, and that he hopes it can be done.

The President emphasized the need of immediate decisions by leaders of Atlantic Pact Nations for a unified defense of Western Europe against Russian aggression.

He said he will name a supreme commander for the European defense army as soon as the pact nations show full cooperation. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to be named to the post.

206 MEN TO BE HONORED

Annual Elks Memorial Booked Here For Sunday

Circleville Elks lodge will hold its annual memorial service Sunday afternoon.

The 2:30 p. m. program will see the 206 members of the local order, who have died since the lodge was organized, given special honors. The affair is an annual event held in the second floor lodge room and open to the general public.

Dr. David Goldschmidt, exalted ruler, said that a special invitation is extended to the general public, especially to the survivors of the 206 men who are to be honored.

Since the 1949 Elks memorial services, Dr. Goldschmidt said, 16 names have been added to the lodge memorial rolls.

The afternoon program is to feature the Circleville high school triple trio in two numbers: "The Prayer Perfect," by Stenson, and "Listen to the Lambs," by Dett. Patty Shellhammer is to be accompanist for both numbers.

THE LODGE ritualist team will conduct the service under Dr. Goldschmidt's direction.

Fred Clark is to give the memorial talk.

Greater Fluid Milk Use Is Noted In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The Agriculture Department says that a sharp shift has taken place the last half year in the use of milk—the shift is toward greater fluid milk and cream consumption and less production of manufactured dairy products.

During the first half of 1950, the increase in milk production over a year earlier was divided fairly evenly between fluid milk uses and manufactured dairy products.

In the last six months, however, with total milk production about the same as last year, the increase in consumption of fluid milk and cream has left a smaller quantity available for production of butter and cheese and other manufactured dairy products.

The annual rates in butter and cheese, particularly, the department says, have shown sharp declines since the early part of 1950.

The department says that this year consumption of fluid milk and cream in the U. S. will be slightly greater than in 1949. Per capita consumption by civilians will be about 390 pounds, compared with 385 pounds last year and the 14-year average of 340 pounds.

206 MEN TO BE HONORED

Annual Elks Memorial Booked Here For Sunday

Circleville Elks lodge will hold its annual memorial service Sunday afternoon.

The 2:30 p. m. program will see the 206 members of the local order, who have died since the lodge was organized, given special honors. The affair is an annual event held in the second floor lodge room and open to the general public.

Dr. David Goldschmidt, exalted ruler, said that a special invitation is extended to the general public, especially to the survivors of the 206 men who are to be honored.

Since the 1949 Elks memorial services, Dr. Goldschmidt said, 16 names have been added to the lodge memorial rolls.

The afternoon program is to feature the Circleville high school triple trio in two numbers: "The Prayer Perfect," by Stenson, and "Listen to the Lambs," by Dett. Patty Shellhammer is to be accompanist for both numbers.

Greater Fluid Milk Use Is Noted In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The Agriculture Department says that a sharp shift has taken place the last half year in the use of milk—the shift is toward greater fluid milk and cream consumption and less production of manufactured dairy products.

During the first half of 1950, the increase in milk production over a year earlier was divided fairly evenly between fluid milk uses and manufactured dairy products.

In the last six months, however, with total milk production about the same as last year, the increase in consumption of fluid milk and cream has left a smaller quantity available for production of butter and cheese and other manufactured dairy products.

The annual rates in butter and cheese, particularly, the department says, have shown sharp declines since the early part of 1950.

The department says that this year consumption of fluid milk and cream in the U. S. will be slightly greater than in 1949. Per capita consumption by civilians will be about 390 pounds, compared with 385 pounds last year and the 14-year average of 340 pounds.

HERE'S WHAT WE FACE—

Total War Would Mean Total U.S. Mobilization

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—A sudden total war against the United States would most certainly scuttle the government's present plans for a mobilization economy of "guns and butter, too."

That would be the least of it. If total war comes, total mobilization must follow—something this nation has never had to do.

With total mobilization, and all that it implies, the American way of life, as we know it, would disappear for the duration.

Washington's current plans do not blueprint all that might be expected—at least not for publication—if all-out war strikes America. But there is plenty of "backstage" speculation. The possibility has not been overlooked and the overall picture is grim enough.

It would be a war for survival, a war involving the whole population.

THE POTENTIAL physical horrors of such a war brought to America's shores have been sufficiently dramatized. They would involve possible atomic attacks, possibly the death of millions of citizens, the destruction of cities.

But aside from these terrors, the nation for the duration would be under rigid control, dictated by military needs.

Every able American, regardless of age or sex, would be compelled to work for the war effort.

Millions in manpower would be needed for civilian defense. Millions more would be drafted for industry.

Economists predict that, from the very first, the national budget would shoot up to a minimum of $150 billion a year.

Taxes would skyrocket. Individual citizens would be told when and where to work, and what to produce.

The nation's industrial might—its potential has never been reached, the economists say—might be strained to the utmost. All supplies would be controlled. Virtually everything would be rationed and the civilian economy stripped to bare necessities.

There would be price ceilings, wage ceilings, manpower control, allocations of all materials, a complete set of priorities on all supplies.

All transportation would be under control, including railroads, airlines, bus lines, trucks and perhaps even automobiles and taxicabs.

These are among the possibilities in a total mobilization for total war.

GOVERNMENT officials say they are not worried over how Americans would rise to that emergency.

They are more worried, they admit privately, over whether Americans can be convinced of the necessity for lesser sacrifices over possibly a long period of years when such an emergency is not immediately apparent.

They are wondering if the people will have the patience and the determination to endure some privations, to forget "business and pleasure as usual," during the long drive ahead to achieve peace.

For even if open, all-out war is averted, some sacrifices will be necessary, despite the sugar-coated pill being initially offered in the form of "guns and butter, too."

That's for sure—no matter what else the Washington experts may tell you now.

In his recent message to the American people, Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall called the turn when he said in part:

"The mobilization of free men involves a long drawn out and intricately planned business and the longer the necessity continues, the more severe will be the test of the character of the men and nations involved."

"With each succeeding month, with each succeeding year, there will be heavier and more pressing demands on the moral and spiritual qualities and powers of our men and women."

"THE DETERMINED quest of security for the world, as we have come to learn, is a heavy burden to be carried along a steep and sometimes bloody road. Only strong nerves and firm resolution will suffice."

"But while we physically arm, we must keep clearly in mind that it is not the mere possession of weapons that will win the struggle. It will be the more the spirit of the resolution to persist to the end that will achieve the ultimate victory, a stable peace."

"We must act now and in the future to prevent further sacri-

4 Years AWOL Brings Arrest

MANILA, Nov. 30—The long arm of the U. S. Army clamped down today on a soldier who went AWOL shortly after the Japanese surrender and spent four years in Manila as a society bandleader.

The American, who went under the assumed name of C. Santos, and his band played at some of Manila's gayest parties until the Army caught up with him.

Today "Santos," who the Army says is actually ex-Sgt. Joseph Luis Archilla, 28, of New York, received a belated dishonorable discharge and was sentenced to six months imprisonment by a court-martial.

files and terrible hazards due to failures here at home.

"The time for debate draws to a close. Americans must make their decision and stick to it for years to come."

Mobilization Schedule To Be Revised Quickly

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—The Defense Department adopted a new mobilization timetable today calling for huge appropriations to bring the armed forces of three million men within six to eight months.

A "quick buildup" of the armed forces—one step short of full mobilization, and based on a belief that a general Asiatic war can still be averted—was recommended by Defense Secretary Marshall as soon as he received full reports of the Chinese offensive.

Defense officials said that President Truman has approved the new program, and that it will shorten by nearly two years the previous timetable for reaching 3,000,000-man strength. They said these results may be expected:

1. About $20 billion in new military appropriations will be required from the lame duck Congress, instead of $15 billion as previously planned. The annual defense bill will exceed $45 billion.

2. CHANGES in the draft law to make more men available will be requested next year. A build-up to 3,000,000 men will nearly exhaust the present pool of draft eligibles.

3. As soon as training camps can be provided, draft calls will soar well above 100,000 per month. Besides building to 3,000,000 from their present 2,200,000 men, the armed forces estimate they will need 750,000 men per year to replace Reserves and later draftees completing service.

A groundwork for the new military program was laid yesterday in day-long top level conferences in the White House and Spent last Saturday morning wandering all over the house. Wherever I went—upstairs or down—I kept hearing a "squeak." Couldn't find out where it was coming from until noon-time when the missus came home from her weekly shopping.

"Listen," I says to her, "hear that squeak?" I started walking real quiet-like across the kitchen and there it went again! "Joe Marsh," she laughs, "that is nothing but your suspender clips rubbing back and forth when you walk!" And darned if it wasn't!
From where I sit, I'd been letting a little thing become a serious problem. Like some little difference of opinion or taste will start off a great big argument. I may prefer a temperate glass of beer with my dinner—while the missus likes tea—but we figure that no two people have exactly the same likes and dislikes. So, why get all "het up" about it?
The moral is, check your suspenders—and check your temper when it comes to little things.

A MILITARY WORLD

IN WASHINGTON it is whispered that government big-wigs have the nation's economy planned for a half century. By 1955, it is predicted, the nation will have spent at least $250,000,000,000 to build up its military power, in the meantime having spoken softly to Russia to restrain it from starting a premature war.

Then Uncle Sam, with his muscles flexed, will try to wean Russia's allies away and stand up boldly to the Russians if they show signs of resentment.

With America holding the balance of power through military strength, the aim will be to settle differences between East and West by intimidating the Russian expansionists. If the Russians lose their allies and the Soviet blows up from within, those will be welcome developments.

All this is based on the theory that Russia will not risk all-out war if it realizes the West is strongly prepared. But, of course, there is no assurance that Russia will wait for the U. S. to prepare.

The program calls for building up tremendous military strength and retaining it indefinitely. The nation will have a permanent military economy with all its controls, dislocations and menaces to freedom. And who knows whether Russia will be awed by presumably superior strength? The usual way is to test strength by war to see if it is there.

The prospect is gloomy, but it seems that is all the human race can look forward to.

CHRISTIAN PURGE

IF ANYBODY doubts that Red China is following the pattern of Communist Russia, he should take a gander at the recent Shanghai conference of Chinese "Christian" leaders to form a new church completely divorced from its long-standing ties with the West.

These Christianized Chinese, fruit of the long efforts and sacrifices of American and European missionaries, adopted a "United Christian Declaration" denouncing "imperialism," particularly "American imperialism," and urging Chinese to pull away from all western influence. They pledged full support to the communist regime.

It is not difficult to see what is happening. The red leaders of China decided that western "imperialists" were trying to exert political influence on China through missionary institutions and that the Chinese Christian bodies had better purge themselves of such influence. Or else.

In the normal course of events the Red Chinese will organize a church according to their own ideas and ultimately eliminate all religion except that of the state.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

The principal issue before the 82nd Congress has been established by Dean Acheson. In an unprecedented attack on such Republican senators as Robert A. Taft, Homer Ferguson and William Knowland, he ridiculed "re-examination." He called them "re-examinists."

So that is what it is to be: A fight over the re-examination of the secretly conducted foreign policy of the United States since 1943 (the Moscow and Teheran conferences). This foreign policy has brought us to a fighting war and close to a third general war in one generation.

Precisely why is it wrong to re-examine a policy and a series of acts which have produced nothing but failure—failure in China; failure in India; failure in Germany; failure in our relations with Great Britain? And to these failures must be added the confusions of the United Nations.

The need for re-examination is not to get even with anybody or to discredit anyone. It is rather to discover what can be salvaged out of what seems at this moment to be a hopeless situation. It can only remain hopeless as long as we are kept in ignorance as to our commitments.

Since the Moscow, Cairo and Teheran conferences in 1943, the American people have been ignorant as to these commitments, not only as to details but even as to the general considerations that led to them. Senator Joe McCarthy's outcry last Winter arose out of the shock as to the results but not the nature of the commitments.

One of the major impediments to getting at the truth is the so-called bipartisan foreign policy which was introduced in the 1944 election campaign to keep the Republicans from asking questions.

The Republican members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations should have been the watchmen at the gates; they should have examined our foreign policy and the deals that this country made with other countries. During the 80th Congress, when the Republicans might have explored the problem, Senator Vandenberg pursued the bipartisan foreign policy to such an extent that the Republicans really assumed some of the responsibility for a policy the objectives of which were unknown to them.

For instance, in September, 1947, General Albert Wedemeyer presented his reports on China and Korea to the President. These reports were suppressed. I know the contents of both, although I do not say that I ever saw the one on Korea. But I do say that if the Wedemeyer reports had been examined and made public by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, we probably would not today have our sons dying on the Yalu river.

Instead, the Wedemeyer reports were suppressed until their usefulness is no more.

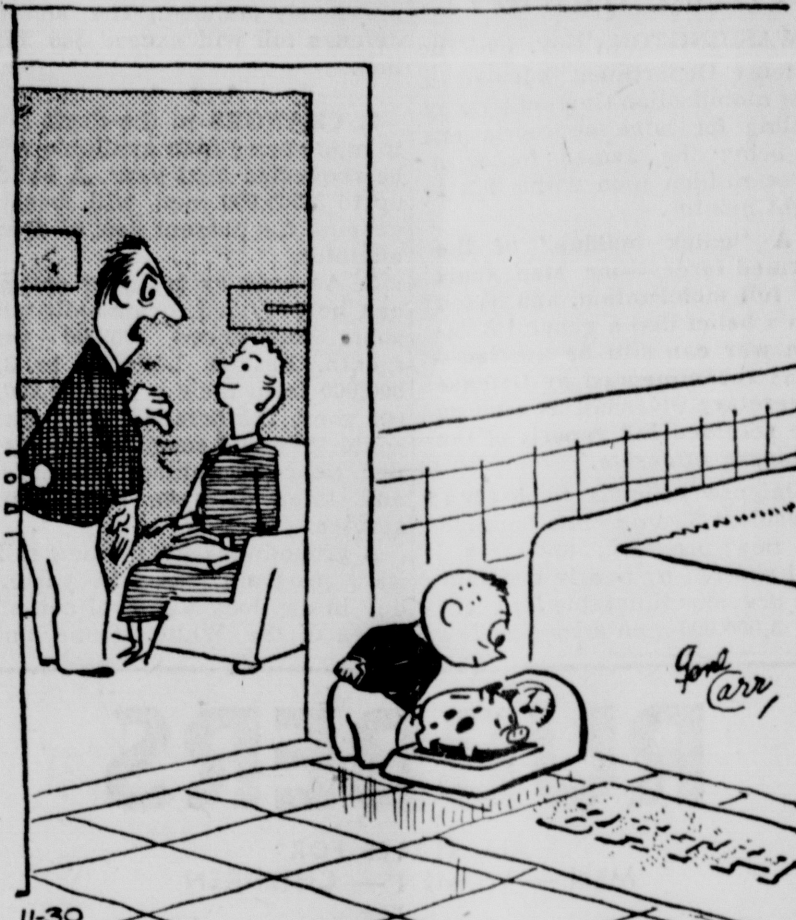

The Republican members of the aforesaid committee are: Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts.

Senator Vandenberg has long been very sick. His participation in the 82nd Congress will be limited by his health.

It was a dramatic moment when troops were ordered into Korea and the applause was heavy but now that the curtain is stuck the audience is getting restless.

This was advertised as a one-act playlet and accepted as such. Now that it's gone into a long third act, cries of "Author! Author!" are getting louder.

"What else could we have done?" somehow doesn't have the snappy challenge it did three months ago.

At that time we wrote "if that's still a 'police action' in Korea it's odd that none of the wagons have come back yet."

That put us on the unfair list of Dream Boys International, but at the moment their eyes are fluttering and they seem to be coming awake.

It is beginning to occur to many Americans that a good beginning for a United Nations action is for the United Nations to begin it.

One of the dirtiest tricks ever played on a bridegroom, I think, was perpetrated at the bachelor dinner of a well-known socialite. Too much champagne had done him in completely. When he recovered consciousness, his right arm was in a sling. He had broken it, his friends told him mournfully, executing a Highland Fling on top of a table. There was not a word of truth in the story. The poor fish spent his entire honeymoon with a perfectly sound right arm bound up in a plaster-of-Paris cast.

At the Washington Press Club, a member told of covering President Truman's latest speaking tour of the middle west. In Chicago, a broken-down old derelict asked what all the excitement was about. "It's for Truman," explained the reporter indulgently. "Hadden't you heard he was in town today?" "Never even heard of Truman," answered the derelict. "Who in heck is he anyhow?" "And that is how I learned," concluded the reporter, "who Gallup polled in 1948."

LOOK OUT for LIZA

By FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1950, by Faith Baldwin Cultrall
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE
BEFORE they separated to dress for dinner Virginia asked Liza, "Do you remember all of us, you and Father were on your way to Arizona . . ."

Liza said soberly, "I remember." "And you left us at the table and went upstairs for something you'd forgotten?"

"I said, my handkerchief; but it was your father's cigar case." "And we sat there talking and he seemed to have some sort of premonition . . . I told you later."

"Yes. He asked you girls, and Kim and Frank, if you would look out for me."

"We do try," Virginia said earnestly.

Liza rose and went over to Virginia's chair, sat down on the arm, and put her smooth cheek against the dark head. She said, "You are darlings."

"If ever you need advice—Not that I'm elderly, but I do feel older, and Kim's really sound."

Liza was inwardly torn between affection and laughter. She said, "Of course, to whom else would I come but you?"

"Mary Alice feels the same way. Oh, Liza, for pity's sake change your mind and come home with me to the lake. It's wonderful and so restful. We have a fascinating new neighbor, a writer—you may have read something of his—his name is Dave Redfern—Red for short, and his last book was called Salt and Sweet."

"I avoided it, because of the title."

"Well, it's tough," said Virginia, "but good. He's fun. About thirty-two and," she added thoughtfully, "unmarried."

Liza felt faintly interested but did not reveal it. She said lightly, "Well, perhaps, but not this summer."

When Robert Fleming phoned Michael to ask, "Will you join us for dinner?" Michael squirmed at the other end of the wire. "Virginia," explained Fleming, "and Liza."

Michael muttered, "I was afraid of that."

"I don't hear you very well, must be the connection."

Michael thought of saying, "I've a date." He thought of it. He wasn't supposed to have a date, or, if so, he was supposed to break it. So he said, "Okay, thanks. Where and what time?"

After dinner he would get hold of her and tell her that he simply could not dedicate his evenings to furthering her strategy. It was asking too much. How did he get into this anyway? Everything happens to me, he thought, while

Dr. Fleming, preparing to see a patient, reflected wryly, Michael thinks he can throw me off. But he overdid his lack of enthusiasm. Well, he told himself, I must try to convert Virginia. Michael's all right. Liza would be good for him and he for her. If there is anything in this, they will, I believe, be happy. Not that one ever knows. He watched his nurse crackle out to summon the sick, and stabbed at a prescription pad with a pencil, drawing heart and flower doodles. He thought, I suppose Abby will want to discuss it with me? I discern Virginia's hand in this impending visit. But it will be pleasant to see Abby, strong, acid, and bracing as a tonic.

A little before eight he called for his female guests and found Virginia ready, handsome in a black faille suit and lace blouse and wearing a hat which simulated a rose, upon her short curly dark hair. He asked, "Liza ready?" and Virginia sighed.

"When the orchids came she insisted upon changing her frock."

"What orchids?"

"Little green ones. She didn't announce who they were from, but I knew. Michael. She tore up the card, fast, looking at it she had discovered uranium."

"Perhaps she has, after a fashion. Don't take it so hard. There may be nothing in it. Perhaps it is just a diversion. Surely you can't resent it?"

"I wouldn't resent anyone, provided he was worth her time—except Michael. He is simply not her type. He's not even good looking," said Virginia, exasperated, "and far too sophisticated."

"That's a stupid and much-misused term."

"Well, too smooth then, too casual and irresponsible. And she's an infant. Anyone nine feet high, with facile conversation and flattery, can take her in, apparently, and Father dreads leaving her to fortune hunters. You know that. He told us all, including Liza."

Dr. Fleming was shocked and said so. "My dear," he expostulated, "you may think what you please of Michael, but scheming or mercenary he is not. He enjoys money, and after earns it, but is not dependent upon it for happiness. Nor would he be interested in a woman because of her money. You know this as well as I."

"Oh, perhaps," she said reluctantly. "But just the same, he'll only make her unhappy."

He looked at her sharply. "Virginia, I know you are deeply in love with Kim. Let's see, when were you married? Just before Liza, was it not? And how old were you?" he asked.

"Nineteen, a little less than two years older than Liza, but I feel like her mother now."

"Nineteen. When you were about seventeen or so, as I recall it, Michael was in the picture. Quite a lot. In and out of your house—"

She turned a bright, becoming scarlet. "That's not fair," she said, "I was fresh out of school, I didn't know my right hand from my left. I was a dope. It was just one of those kid crushes."

"Yet," said Fleming, "Michael would have none of you. You were—at the time—too young for him. I think he was chasing around with a divorcee. At seventeen things hurt painfully, but you recover quickly and think you've forgotten. Your subconscious hasn't. Ask yourself if part of your resentment against Michael doesn't date from the days when you followed him around, with your eyes closed and your heart open?"

"This time Virginia was shocked. "But I don't even like him now," she protested.

"Ah!" said her godfather, smiling.

Liza came in and Virginia said, "It's a little cooler tonight, isn't it, Uncle Bob?" and he agreed that, yes, mercifully, it was.

Liza wore gray a sheer little suit, with a round white collar and buttons shaped like daisies. But her flowers were green orchids, her handbag green, and her little shoes, and her hat was green too, pale, with darker leaves and a whoosh of veiling.

She asked, "Isn't Michael meeting us here?"

"No, at the Roof. You look charming. And what beautiful orchids!"

She touched them with a fingertip. "They're sweet," she said softly, and Virginia looked at Dr. Fleming and then away.

They went to the St. Regis roof, where Michael joined them. At the table Liza indicated the flowers again and smiled. She said, "They're enchanting."

Michael agreed, "Very elegant," and Liza slightly shook her head, in warning. She leaned toward Michael and Dr. Fleming raised his voice. The orchestra played "Buttons and Bows" as Liza said, "Thank you, Michael."

He started and she added, very much lower, "Don't let it slip; your inferior maxilla is slipping!"

"Shall we dance?" inquired Michael, a drowning man.

MARCH OF EVENTS

New 'Unification' Squabble | Believe Soviet Mobilization
'Twixt Army, Air Force? | Lags Behind United States

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—New unifications fireworks can be expected from the Pentagon. This time the dispute looms between the Army and Air Force rather than the Navy and the Air Force.

Gen. Mark Clark, in reality the Army's No. 2 man, doesn't like it because the ground forces have no authority over their close air support and transport. These are Air Force commands.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, is willing to accept the fact that his commanders have to ask for air support. He thinks they always will get it. But Clark wants to be able to order it.

Advance rumblings are evident through a great show of amity at the Pentagon. But when Congress reconvenes, Clark and his supporters can be expected to make their move.

● REDS HAVE TROUBLES, TOO—Reports seeping through the Iron Curtain reveal that mobilization in Russia isn't going as well as in the United States. These reports say that the Soviet economy already is being strained to raise the living standards of the Russians and mobilization is putting a heavier burden on the nation.

Compared with this country, Russia economical-ly is said to be about at the same stage that we were during World War II. That gives us a jump of several years in mobilizing our resources.

The economic advantage of the United States is plainly shown in the steel situation. It will take Russia five years to get another 15 million tons of capacity. We could get that much anytime by halting auto production.

Gen. Mark Clark

● KOREAN REHABILITATION—President Truman wants the post-war relief of Korea to be clearly outlined as a United Nations rather than American project. And, foreign aid administrators in Washington hope the UN starts the planning very soon.

The reason is that Korean rehabilitation funds are fast disappearing. And the United States Budget bureau has turned thumbs down on any deficiency appropriation to aid the war-ravaged country.

Korean aid officials in Washington point out that they asked $100 million for Korea when there was no war. Congress, in return, voted $0 millions but the invasion then came along.

Washington feels that the relief of the Koreans is a matter of concentrated UN action—just as the UN rather than any one country met the aggression by armed force. This country will give its part but not all.

11-Piece Band Is Signed For Mistletoe Ball Here The Evening Of Dec. 27

Outfit Said 'Terrific Hit'

Ned Mapes and his 11-piece orchestra from Columbus have been retained for the annual Mistletoe Ball to be staged here Dec. 27.

The ball, highlight of the local social season, is sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club for the benefit of its child welfare fund.

Maynard Matz, general chairman in charge, said the affair will be staged in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum Wednesday, Dec. 27, from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Matz said Mapes and his orchestra, which will bring along its own girl vocalist "are a terrific hit and get many requests for the tunes they helped popularize."

Mapes is sincere when he tells his audiences to bring up their request numbers, Matz declared. The maestro and the band will be happy to play whatever dancers wish, if they know the tune, and chances are they do.

Among the many popular tunes requested are his arrangements of "Sentimental Me," "Old Piano Roll Blues," "Count Every Star," and medleys which include oldies like "Me and My Shadow," "Chicago" and "Oh You Beautiful Doll."

The average Mapes program is noted for its change of pace. Before the evening is done dancers recall having heard fox-trots, rumbas, sambas, waltzes, polkas, dixieland, two-steps, jitterbug—just about everything in the books.

Assisting the maestro is Bill Haines, the Three Notes, Freddy McNulty, Glee Club, Bill Dixon and an ensemble.

The "Tune-Twisters," a small unit within the band, features dixie-land numbers and these boys reportedly know just how it is done from the amount of applause received.

Sally Mogan Sets Marriage

Miss Sally Ann Mogan, bride-elect of James D. McKinney, has completed plans for her Saturday wedding to be held at 10 a. m. in St. Joseph's rectory. The Rev. Fr. Edward Reidy will officiate.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne G. Mogan of 134 West Water street and Mr. McKinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKinney of Groveport.

Miss Mogan has asked her sister, Mrs. Paul J. White, to be a matron-of-honor. Lawrence Hartman of Groveport will serve as best man.

A wedding breakfast has been planned for the immediate families and will be held in Pickaway Arms following the ceremony.

J. L. Mays Observe 63rd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mays of near Ringgold observed their 63rd wedding anniversary Thanksgiving Day at a family dinner in Pickaway Arms.

The Mays were married at a quiet home ceremony in the residence of Mrs. Mays' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beldine Snyder of Walnut Township Thanksgiving Day of 1887. Thanksgiving Day fell on Nov. 24 in 1887. But the Mays have celebrated their anniversary each year on Thanksgiving Day no matter the date.

The Rev. A. F. Hixson, Methodist minister, was officiating pastor at the wedding.

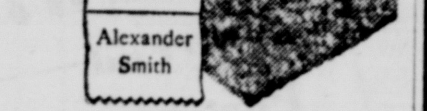

Mrs. Mays was attired in cadet blue and wore a corsage of red roses for the dinner.

The anniversary table was centered with yellow chrysanthemums. A decorated wedding cake was cut at the conclusion of the meal.

Attending the celebration were their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph May and Mr. and Mrs. Alva May, Walter and Virgil May, a grandson and granddaughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger May, and a granddaughter, Donna May.

The Mays also have two great granddaughters, Valerie and Nancy May, children of Mr. and Mrs. Roger May.

Mr. May is 90 and Mrs. May 88. Both are in excellent health. Mr. May does farm chores and Mrs. May still cooks three meals a day and does her own housework.

11-Piece Band Is Signed For Mistletoe Ball Here The Evening Of Dec. 27

Outfit Said 'Terrific Hit'

Ned Mapes and his 11-piece orchestra from Columbus have been retained for the annual Mistletoe Ball to be staged here Dec. 27.

The ball, highlight of the local social season, is sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club for the benefit of its child welfare fund.

Maynard Matz, general chairman in charge, said the affair will be staged in Pickaway Fairgrounds Coliseum Wednesday, Dec. 27, from 10 p. m. until 1 a. m.

Matz said Mapes and his orchestra, which will bring along its own girl vocalist "are a terrific hit and get many requests for the tunes they helped popularize."

Mapes is sincere when he tells his audiences to bring up those request numbers, Matz declared. The maestro and the band will be happy to play whatever dancers wish, if they know the tune, and chances are they do.

Among the many popular tunes requested are his arrangements of "Sentimental Me," "Old Piano Roll Blues," "Count Every Star," and medleys which include oldies like "Me and My Shadow," "Chicago" and "Oh You Beautiful Doll."

The average Mapes program is noted for its change of pace. Before the evening is done dancers recall having heard fox-trots, rumbas, sambas, waltzes, polkas, dixieland, two-steps, jitterbug—just about everything in the books.

Assisting the maestro is Bill Haines, the Three Notes, Freddy McNulty, Glee Club, Bill Dixon and an ensemble.

The "Tune-Twisters," a small unit within the band, features dixie-land numbers and these boys reportedly know just how it is done from the amount of applause received.

Sally Mogan Sets Marriage

Miss Sally Ann Mogan, bride-elect of James D. McKinney, has completed plans for her Saturday wedding to be held at 10 a. m. in St. Joseph's rectory. The Rev. Fr. Edward Reidy will officiate.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne G. Mogan of 134 West Water street and Mr. McKinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKinney of Groveport.

Miss Mogan has asked her sister, Mrs. Paul J. White, to be a matron-of-honor. Lawrence Hartman of Groveport will serve as best man.

A wedding breakfast has been planned for the immediate families and will be held in Pickaway Arms following the ceremony.

J. L. Mays Observe 63rd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. May of near Ringgold observed their 63rd wedding anniversary Thanksgiving Day at a family dinner in Pickaway Arms.

The Mays were married at a quiet home ceremony in the residence of Mrs. May's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beldine Snyder of Walnut Township Thanksgiving Day of 1887. Thanksgiving Day fell on Nov. 24 in 1887. But the Mays have celebrated their anniversary each year on Thanksgiving Day no matter the date.

The Rev. A. F. Hixson, Methodist minister, was officiating pastor at the wedding.

Mrs. May was attired in cadet blue and wore a corsage of red roses for the dinner.

The anniversary table was centered with yellow chrysanthemums. A decorated wedding cake was cut at the conclusion of the meal.

Attending the celebration were their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph May and Mr. and Mrs. Alva May, Walter and Virgil May, a grandson and granddaughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger May, and a granddaughter, Donna May.

The Mays also have two great granddaughters, Valerie and Nancy May, children of Mr. and Mrs. Roger May.

Mr. May is 90 and Mrs. May 86. Both are in excellent health. Mr. May does farm chores and Mrs. May still cooks three meals a day and does her own housework.

Teen Tips

What kind of boys do girls like best? An all-American athlete? The handsome leading man of the class play who appears headed for Hollywood? Or a comedian who is always the life of the party?

Some girls are attracted by all these types. But the boys who are usually the most likeable, successful men are the happy-medium kind.

They're fun at parties and dances, but don't always expect to be the center of attention. They don't forget the girl they escort.

They're interested in athletics or other school activities, but also keep up with their studies,

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

because they want to prepare for a job or for college.

They're willing to spend their allowance on occasional go-places dates, but can also have fun taking "an old-fashioned walk," on a picnic or an evening at home playing cards or doing homework with their date.

They remember their manners, but do it quietly, not to show off.

They show their date that they like her, but follow her wishes about parking, necking, drinking and going home on time.

They know that clothes aren't as important as personality, but they dress appropriately — a sports jacket, shirt and tie for dates; a dark suit for dances and parties; a dark suit or a tuxedo for formal dances. An old sweater, sweat shirt or jacket is fine for a picnic (if it's clean), but not for any other date.

Bradley Recalls 'Bulge' Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff, in commenting on the current military situation in Korea, advised worried persons to "remember the Battle of the Bulge" and not to regard the Korean situation as anything approaching a debacle.

The general pointed out that things looked dark for the Allies on the second day of the Battle of the Bulge, and said "if we had quit then, we would have made a serious mistake."

Other military sources declared that the United Nations forces now in Korea are sufficient to establish a defense line above Pyongyang and Wonsan.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Teen Tips

What kind of boys do girls like best? An all-American athlete? The handsome leading man of the class play who appears headed for Hollywood? Or a comedian who is always the life of the party?

Some girls are attracted by all these types. But the boys who are usually the most likeable, successful men are the happy-medium kind.

They're fun at parties and dances, but don't always expect to be the center of attention. They don't forget the girl they escort.

They're interested in athletics or other school activities, but also keep up with their studies.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

because they want to prepare for a job or for college.

They're willing to spend their allowance on occasional go-placed dates, but can also have fun taking "an old-fashioned walk," on a picnic or an evening at home playing cards or doing homework with their date.

They remember their manners, but do it quietly, not to show off.

They show their date that they like her, but follow her wishes about parking, necking, drinking and going home on time.

They know that clothes aren't as important as personality, but they dress appropriately—a sports jacket, shirt and tie for dates; a dark suit for dances and parties; a dark suit or a tuxedo for formal dances. An old sweater, sweat shirt or jacket is fine for a picnic (if it's clean), but not for any other date.

Bradley Recalls 'Bulge' Trouble

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff, in commenting on the current military situation in Korea, advised worried persons to "remember the Battle of the Bulge" and not to regard the Korean situation as anything approaching a debacle.

The general pointed out that things looked dark for the Allies on the second day of the Battle of the Bulge, and said "if we had quit then, we would have made a serious mistake."

Other military sources declared that the United Nations forces now in Korea are sufficient to establish a defense line above Pyongyang and Wonsan.

Franklin County To Study Voting Machine Idea

COLUMBUS, Nov. 30—Franklin County wants to install voting machines for test purposes, but first it wants to know "how much" the experiment will cost and where the money will come from.

County commissioners and election board members voted yesterday to check on the ability of the county to finance the rental and purchase of the machines on a promissory note plan within present tax revenues.

County Auditor Fred C. Dunn will have to provide wary commissioners with answers to two important questions involving finances for the machines. Will voting machines result in savings in election costs? And can the election board "produce $4,500" from its 1951 budget of over $362,000 for the rental of 30 voting machines? William E. Donahue, elections board member, told commissioners that payment for the notes "would come out of the appropriation of the board of elections" and could be met in part with savings from fewer precinct election officials and lower printing costs.

But Board Chairman William Schneider declared that election costs in the future may increase due to special elections. These "new burdens," he said, wipe out any savings due to voting machines and county commis-

Ohio Bell OKs Wage Increase

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30—Some 14,500 employees of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will soon receive weekly wage increases ranging from $3 to $5. The wage boosts, provided for in a new 15-month contract signed late yesterday by Ohio Bell and the CIO-Communication Workers of America, will affect about 4,750 workers in Greater Cleveland. President Randolph Elide said the new agreement, which runs to February, 1952, with no wage re-opening, calls for increased starting and maximum rates, faster wage progression to the new top rates and numerous re-classifications.

Christmas SHOPPING

for Him--Her--Sister--Brother--Dad and Mother

A GIFT that is always appropriate for the young man of the family who is attending school away from home is Samsonite Luggage—it is not only nice to receive but it is practical as well. Made with a new miracle covering that is tough, dirt-proof and better than leather because it is more durable and longer-wearing—comes in Saddle Tan, Cordovan Brown, Admiral Blue and Rawhide Finish. Priced from $17.50 to $35 according to the size of the case. Mason Furniture.

A SURE WAY to keep the man of the house at home evenings—give him a power saw or other wood working equipment this Christmas. Too with this piece he may be enabled to make minor repairs around the house. Harpster and Yost have a complete line of wood-working equipment—priced within the reach of everyone.

HERE IS something the housewife would love right now before Christmas—Springerle Rollers—to make the ever popular little Dutch Christmas cookies by that name. This roller is made of hard maple with 12 imprints. Only $1.29 each at Harpster and Yost Hardware.

AN IDEAL GIFT for any home-maker is a starter set of Warwick China—you may now buy this elegant china at My-Lady's Beauty Shop in open stock or in sets as desired. This china was formerly sold by Mader China Store and the sets may be added to as wonderful Christmas gifts. A 16 piece starter set costs $12.32.

A GIFT for the entire family is a Television Set. This is something that would make everyone happy and too it is ideal for keeping the family together, evenings. Now television sets are priced so that every family may own one—even the dwellers in trailers. The newest Arvin set made especially for small homes or trailers has an 8 inch screen that is equal in size to the former 10 inch screens. This is an ideal gift where an extra set is desired. Often in a sick-room or where children may enjoy it away from the more expensive set. See this new set at Hoover Music Store. Just $119.95.

HAVE YOU thought of your Christmas wines? The Great Day will need toasts and flavoring for the cakes and puddings. Son's Grill has California Sherry Wine, Port, both dark and light and also Mustard—all at 89c quart. Don't wait until the last day get yours early.

REDBIRDS ALL LIKE HIM

Marion To Pilot Cards; Must Produce A Winner

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Mr. Shortstop is now Mr. Manager and brother, there sure is a difference.

It is now player-manager Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals and the genial Slat should find the new life quite interesting.

Marty, who will be 33 years old tomorrow, takes over where Lou Boudreau left off as the only playing manager in the game and he takes over a team that needs something to make it a winner again.

Owner Fred Saigh probably made a wise move in finally deciding on his shortstop. Marion has been with the Cards since 1940 and always has been a winning ball player.

The Octopus, who appeared a wee bit too high to most observers who saw him stringbean around the short field when he first came up, built up a reputation that had baseball men ranking him right up close to Honus Wagner.

That's a top tribute to pay a shortstop, particularly one who doesn't earn his pay with a too heavy bat.

THESE THINGS probably had little bearing on Marion's selection as the 21st manager of the Redbirds since 1900.

Snow Cancels 11 Cage Tilts During Week

A total of 11 basketball games in Pickaway County schools have been postponed this week because of too much snow.

County Superintendent George D. McDowell said the contests will be scheduled later at the convenience of the schools involved.

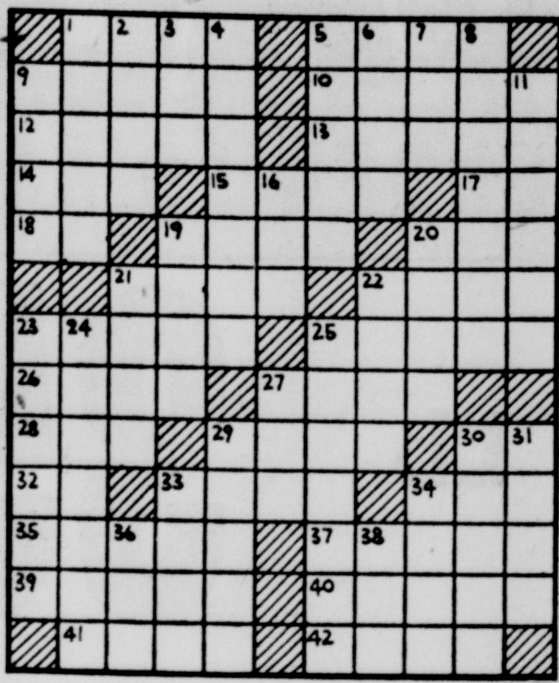

The superintendent said the games were cancelled automatically when schools were dismissed this week because of the weather. The schools are to re-open Monday if buses are able to penetrate the rural areas.

Games called off this week in the county were:

- Tuesday
Jackson at Stoutsville.
Amanda at Monroe.
Good Hope at Atlanta.
Saltcreek at Hamilton Township.
Scioto at Pleasantville.
Walnut at Carroll.
- Friday
Darby at Ashville.
Monroe at Jackson.
New Holland at Walnut.
Pickaway at Williamsport.

REDBIRDS ALL LIKE HIM

Marion To Pilot Cards; Must Produce A Winner

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Mr. Shortstop is now Mr. Manager and brother, there sure is a difference.

It is now player-manager Marty Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals and the genial Slat should find the new life quite interesting.

Marty, who will be 33 years old tomorrow, takes over where Lou Boudreau left off as the only playing manager in the game and he takes over a team that needs something to make it a winner again.

Owner Fred Saigh probably made a wise move in finally deciding on his shortstop. Marion has been with the Cards since 1940 and always has been a winning ball player.

The Octopus, who appeared a wee bit too high to most observers who saw him stringbean around the short field when he first came up, built up a reputation that had baseball men ranking him right up close to Honus Wagner.

That's a top tribute to pay a shortstop, particularly one who doesn't earn his pay with a too heavy bat.

THESE THINGS probably had little bearing on Marion's selection as the 21st manager of the Redbirds since 1900.

What counted more, most assuredly, was his gift of leadership, which is known throughout baseball.

Marion has been the Cardinal short field man since he's been with the club. He held the infield together. Off the field, he was also the leader, the fellow guys went to see with grievances.

As player representative of the National League—a job he now loses because of his executive capacity—the affable but firm shortstop stood up and fought for the players, pulling no punches.

Marion had a lot to do with the pension fund and it will be interesting to see how he takes to their cause now that he is up there with management. It is a good bet that the players on the Cardinals feel that they have one of "their boys" to head them.

This could help the down-in-the-dump Cards who finished neither first nor second last season for the first time since 1940.

Marion has a big job ahead of him as Eddie Dyer's successor. Dyer saw age catch up to his former fleet Redbirds and he couldn't do anything about it. Marion, noticeably slowed down by chronic back and knee ailments, was one of those who just wasn't the same as of yore.

And Mr. Shortstop may be one of those who feel the first blow of the ax from Mr. Manager. Marion sure will give it a try, but if he feels that sitting on the bench is best for the club, out he will come. Marty is a winner and he won't play a loser.

In any case, wish him luck. He deserves it—needs it, too.

MARTIN WAS the choice of 23 prospects considered by Saigh. He was finally chosen yesterday morning over Johnny Keane, Rochester Redwings manager.

A few hours later the Cardinal owner announced his decision with a great expression of confidence in Mr. Shortstop.

But he only gave "Slat" a one-year contract, which may or may not indicate that Saigh has learned some tricks from Branch Rickey.

Saigh told a news conference: "For our purpose, Marty Marion can do as good a job as anyone in baseball. This will be a new era for the Cardinals in 1951."

Marty echoed that by saying that a first-division club "wouldn't be enough to satisfy him. We're going to do our best to win the pennant."
